

1.	Course name: Diversity of invertebrates
2.	University department: Faculty of Biological Sciences, Museum of Natural History, H. Sienkiewicza 21 Street, 50-335 Wrocław
3.	Course type: lectures (20 h) and practices (10 h)
4.	Degree: bachelor
5.	Semester: summer
6.	Number of hours: 30
7.	Name, Surname, academic title: Małgorzata Proćków, Ph.D , assistant professor (malgorzata.prockow@uwr.edu.pl)
8.	Course description/Content: This course is an introduction to over 90% of the animal kingdom. It includes major and lesser-known phyla of invertebrates. You will learn about evolutionary milestones that led to distinct body plans and consider selected topics pertinent to this group. You can expect to learn about diversity, disparity, ecology and biology.
9.	Recommended literature: Selected chapters Schmidt-Rhaesa A. 2019. Miscellaneous Invertebrates. De Gruyter, https://doi.org/10.1515/9783110489279 Pechenik J.A. 2014. Biology of the Invertebrates. McGraw-Hill Higher Education
10.	Form of credit: engagement, short presentations and multiple-choice test
11.	Language: English
12.	Number of ECTS: 3